The Point, Saranac Lake, New York

You'll see diners in ties and jackets most evenings at this Rockefeller-built Adirondack retreat. On Wednesday and Saturday nights, however, the Point takes things up a notch with formal dinners meant to evoke the so-called Great Camp Era, when weekendening Gilded Age tycoons entertained in grand style in even grander log mansions. Held in the Great Hall, the dinners are black tie optional. But according to general manager Cameron Karger, the pearls and ball gowns do come out. As encouragement, the Relais & Châteaux hotel keeps studs, cuff
