

13 Most Romantic Food Vacations in America Slideshow

The Point, Adirondack Mountains, NY

The warmth of a cabin-style elite hotel can be quite alluring, and an extended stay at The Point in the Adirondacks is the quintessential backdrop for a romantic tryst. A private Adirondack estate built by William Avery Rockefeller a century ago as his family's private home is now a sprawling hotel with an elite dining program headed up by chef Mark Levy. Guests at The Point often dine together with other couples in the Great Hall, forging bonds and a jovial atmosphere. Guests can also enjoy snow barbecues at the lean-to, luncheons on the terrace, island picnics, or cocktails on the Elco – as well as intimate dinners for two in the guest rooms.

Credit: The Point